

Balancing the Dataset we implemented a strategic resampling approach using the resampling function from `sklearn.utils`. Retaining such key features from a diverse dataset is crucial for unbiased model training and accurate feature extraction, ultimately ensuring the integrity and robustness of our training process. This approach preserved crucial data features like protein m/z ratio segments and intensity values for each sample.