

On the day of my speech I was fully prepared, but I discovered that I had received wrong information. I was nervous, but I managed to control things and started to remember the words and pronounce them