

Dear Editor, I am writing to ask for help in saving the blobfish. It lives in the deep ocean. However, it doesn't look attractive. As a result, it doesn't get attention. In my opinion, the blobfish is a weird animal. For example, it doesn't have any bones. Therefore, we have to learn more about it. Another fact, that it eats crabs. If the blobfish get extinct, we will have lots of crabs which will affect the sea ecosystem. There is also an important reason to save it because it keeps the ecosystem intact as it cleans the ocean floor. For all these reasons, I believe that we should do everything to save the blobfish. Thank you for your attention, Hana Ali
