

High blood pressure can affect anyone. The risk of developing it increases with age and if there is a family history of hypertension.