

working from home presents compelling advantages, including increased productivity, cost savings, improved work–life balance, enhanced talent attraction and retention, environmental benefits, and better health outcomes.