

For example, Mark Burry, an architect from New Zealand, has worked on La Sagrada Familia for almost 40 years. Before his death, he made three-dimensional models of his plans for the building, hoping that others could complete his masterpiece. These models have helped Gaudi's successors. A masterpiece is an extremely good work of art.