

The child's first explorations writing Particular genres of text, such as product labels, street banners etc., be recognised long before individual letters are known Children Use many strategies to work out what adults are doing with magazine pens mobile devices and other items associated with literacy and often experiment with different ways