

Dip a sterile swab into your culture, press it against the side of the tube to squeeze out excess liquid, gently rub the wet swab over the surface of the agar plate labeled “direct count.”