

The business environment consists of interconnected layers that influence an organization's operations and decision-making.