

This study aims to explore and analyze the factors that affect customer satisfaction and loyalty in the retail sector in Oman, by understanding customers' experiences and needs, and providing recommendations to improve the services and products provided to enhance customer satisfaction and increase their loyalty.