

Foundations of the building are just like legs of the human body. Similarly when the foundations of any building are not strong enough, they also fail to perform well and building collapse due to the foundation failures.