

The majority of people have taken many difficult decisions. Either to complete studying the same major which is civil engineering or to change it to another major which is business administration. I found myself as a businessman and I dreamed to have my own business.