There are good and bad decisions we make in our lives that affect our experiences. However, I had a bad decision to postpone important tasks. One time I didn't study for an important exam and got a low grade. In my view, taking responsibility is crucial. I made the decision to go to university, which was a good decision that helped me find a good job. This taught me to manage my time better and avoid putting off important things.