

Contacting with others is something that we cannot live without. Nowadays, there are many ways to communicate with others. Moreover, the call could happen from far distances. Not only cell phone could be used for calls, but it also could be used for texting. The voice of both callers would be the same their voices. In addition, texting is another thing that we could use in the cell phones. The message would be sent in the same moment. In brief, all of above show the two ways of communication by using cell phones. In the end, texting messages and voice calling are the two main ways that cell phones are used. However, cell phones are the most common way that is used those days. To start with, calling from a cell phone to another is something happen in seconds. You could talk to the other person like he or she is next to you. Sending messages could happen in few seconds from a cell phone to another. It is not matter the distance between the both cell phones. That are what I know about cell phones.