

and the simple pleasure of a meal shared between friends felt like the greatest luxury in the world.