

Socializing online and socializing in person Socializing is an important behavior for human kind. a face to face socializing can show different facial expressions such as, happiness, sadness, angry, shyness and many others. a face to face socializing can show different facial expressions such as, happiness, sadness, angry, shyness and many others. these facial expressions make communication better and realistically. these facial expressions make communication better and realistically. Although, some people prefer to socializing in person while the majority of people combine two ways of socializing. Although, some people prefer to socializing in person while the majority of people combine two ways of socializing. While online socializing can save a lot of time and effort. Online socializing can keep you up with your friends all the time. While in person socializing allows you to build your social skills. While online socializing can save a lot of time and effort.