As an AI language model, I employ both bottom-up and top-down strategies to understand and generate text. This could involve using prior knowledge, context clues, or overarching themes to understand the meaning of text.