

A fixed cost is an expense that does not change as production volume increases or decreases within a relevant range.