

The play begins with Strepsiades sitting up in bed, too worried to sleep because he is faced with legal action for non-payment of debts.