

When someone upsets you or is being rude, there's nothing worse than not being able to think of what to say. So here are some good expressions for when you're upset. But it can also be used when someone has said something that you disagree with or upsets you. "That's the last straw!" "The last straw" is the last small thing, after many others, that makes someone become very upset.