

Documentation One goal of usable design is to avoid the need for documentation altogether. Users should be able to just interact naturally with interfaces.