

How do people learn about new "hot" professions? How do they discover their "dream job"? Many people these days go to a career counsellor. I can't believe they're paying me to do this.