

He got on his motorcycle and decided to rob the grocery store located at the end of the street. Indeed, the seller carried out the order, which made the thief feel proud, so he snatched a bag of crackers before leaving the store, and drove his motorcycle and revealed his face covering, opened the bag of crackers and poured some of them in his mouth. The criminal went towards the exact location of his crime and waited until the middle of the night, and the passers-by began to disappear completely. From the street, the criminal put his face covering, entered the shop and pointed his weapon in the face of the seller.