

To make the most of natural light and ventilation, which helps reduce concentrations of carbon dioxide, nitrogen dioxide and other harmful chemicals found in some buildings