A collective agreement may be a contract formed between the employer and the union that tracks various terms and conditions of work for the representatives in the bargaining unit. Terms and conditions come through collective bargaining between the employer and the union.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com