

In 1937, Britain proposed a Palestine partition plan to the League of Nations, including a technical committee to detail it. Facing Arab and Jewish opposition, implementation was delayed. Further attempts at Arab persuasion followed in 1945 (Joint Anglo–American Committee) and 1946–47 (Morrison and Bevin plans).