

The process involves four steps: 1. The owner recruits a team of engineers and architects to prepare the design documents that describe the entire project. The owner chooses the most suitable company based on the offers provided, the contract is signed and the company starts working. Construction companies are invited to submit quotations based on these documents. 2. 3. 4.