

With the rising climate change and environmental sustainability concerns, numerous organizations are relying on the Information Technology (IT) to shrink their carbon footprint.