

Supplements to face-to-face classes because they stimulate lively educational experiences. •

Widespread adoption of educational course management systems • Environment to facilitate collaborative learning for virtual classrooms • Constant communication with other learners • Ability to connect students and make course materials available on an around-the-clock basis