

Ahmad Ibn Majid, the great Muslim Navigator, is also famous in the West because it is said he helped guide the Portuguese Navigator, Vasco da Gama on his historic voyage to India — which was a first by a European by way of the Cape of Good Hope and the Indian Ocean