

Today is my first day in the new school year. At school I greeted my friends, and we stood in the lines of the school queue, and after the school radio, in which the school administration welcomed us and the return of the study, we entered the classes, and there I got to know new colleagues, and also new teachers, and the teachers gave us a simple definition of their names, and themselves, then they set up. We have different conversations to get to know each other, and the study will start officially the next day, and I return home happy with my old and new friends, and I am happy that I have advanced a year in my studies. From school subjects, I go to meet new classmates, new teachers, I also meet colleagues from previous years, and my former teachers, I always think that the first thing always tastes, the first day of school, and the first day of summer vacation, I hope it will be a happy year for everyone. And that I get a lot of benefits both on the scientific level by learning new skills and information, and also on the social level that I have many friends, and I also wish success and success for me and all my colleagues, and that the school year ends while I am successful and superior. I am really happy that my transition to a new school year means that I am close to achieving my dreams of entering university, and one of the happiest moments of my life is the first school days. My father drove me to the school door, greeted him and left quickly entering the schoolyard. Let me tell you how I spent my first school day at school.
