

Financial system facilitates the transfer of economic resources from one section of the economy to another.