

Hearing loss is invisible and therefore historically has not been given the attention needed. Tests that are available for testing the hearing of infants will also be discussed.