

Habitual Buying Behavior occurs under conditions of low-consumer involvement and little significant brand differences. For example, table salt.