

?Once, a young man was asked to paint a boat for a rich man. ?Even the tiniest good deeds could make a big difference in someone's life. ?Your kindness might mean the world to someone else, just like many people have unknowingly helped you in the past. ?While he was painting, he noticed a tiny hole in the boat's hull. ?He quietly fixed the hole without saying anything. ?I don't deserve so much for such a small repair. ?The boat owner smiled and explained you don't understand how important your act was. ?My kids took the boat for a fishing trip after you finished painting and they didn't know about the hole. ?I wasn't there at the time and when I came back I worried because I remembered the hole. ?I tried calling them but couldn't reach them. ?Imagine my relief when they returned safely.