

An acacia tree appeared in Heliopolis where they believed that it was related to life and death, therefore it paralleled the ished-tree, where the ancient Egyptians believed that the deities had to write the names and their prediction upon the leaves of this tree.