When people talk about the most important developments of civilistion they usually mention writing.if you are a good hunter, you will draw the animals youve hunted to show people.such drawings are among the earliest examples of writing.