

Capitalism occurs when people are allowed to own and control capital assets, use them according to their self-interest, and earn profit by producing valued goods and services utilizing capital resources.