

December 25th Dear Laura, Thank you for your letter. One of the most vibrant festivities in Morocco is Eid al-Fitr, which marks the end of Ramadan, the holy month of fasting. Indeed, it sounds like an enchanting tradition with its costumes, fortune-telling, and bonfires marking the transition into winter. Families come together to celebrate with feasts of delicious traditional dishes like couscous, tagines, and pastries. Please extend my warmest regards to your family as well.
