

Managing mosques, preaching and guiding them is a responsibility that must be committed to diligent work, and those responsible for this task must exert their efforts to strive for the health of Islam and Islamic values among the members of society.