

"The Last Leaf" is a short story by O. Henry that explores themes of hope, sacrifice, and the power of belief. In a selfless act, their elderly neighbor, Behrman, who has always dreamed of painting a masterpiece, secretly paints a leaf on the wall to give Johnsy hope.