

After sleeping and working, watching TV is by far the most popular leisure activity the world over. The vast majority, eighty-five percent, regularly read newspapers, and fifty-four percent regularly read books