QF's Rasekh initiative signs agreement to enhance cultural and religious education Agreement to provide learning resources to schools across Qatar Qatar Foundation has signed a cooperation agreement with the Sheikh Abdullah Al-Ansari Complex for the Holy Qur'an and Sciences to enrich the Rasekh initiative, which is designed to link curriculum with local knowledge, language, culture, heritage, and values."By incorporating these locally-centered resources, Rakesh helps create a more relatable and meaningful learning experience, enriching classroom discussions and deepening students' understanding of Islamic cultural context and identity.""This collaboration reflects a shared vision with the Sheikh Abdullah Al-Ansari Complex Holy Qur'an and Sciences to serve the Qatari community by providing high-quality educational resources that align with its aspirations and values, helping to build an informed society rooted in its authentic values.""This agreement marks a pivotal step in our effort to enhance educational content with resources that uphold Islamic values," said Maryam Al-Hajri, Director of Partnerships at the Qatar Foundation's Pre-University Education Rasekh initiative.Through this agreement, the initiative will provide religious and Islamic studies content, as it will introduce additional resources, discussions, and learning materials into schools across Qatar.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com