

The family consists of 8 members: the husband, who is 46 years old, the wife, who is 33 years old, 4 males, the eldest of whom is 15 years old, followed by his brother, who is 14 years old, one of them is 2 and a half years old, and the last is a year and a month, and two daughters, 11 years old, and the other 4 and a half years old. Regarding the academic level of the children in school, they move to the next grades automatically after their grades are raised to reach the passing grades, meaning that their educational level is not very good, and the father declared that he is unable to teach them at home, nor even his wife (there is neither time nor desire to teach them because they need a lot of thought. The family are Muslims, and what made this clear is that they talked to us about their routine during the month of Ramadan and during Eid al-Adha and Eid al-Fitr. The father finished studying at the university with a bachelor's degree in social service and a two-year diploma as a driving instructor at the Ministry of Transportation. The family's social relationships are limited, and are mainly limited to relatives on special occasions. Visits are made only on occasions and to relatives, and there are not many friendships. The family is a nuclear, non-extended family. They may go there on foot.