

1- Ensure that goals are realistic 2- Convey unconditional positive regard for client. Give positive reinforcement for problem identification and development of more adaptive coping behaviors 6- Encourage and support client in confronting the fear of failure by having client attend therapy activities and undertake new tasks.