

The poet says that he can't compare his beloved to summer though it's a beautiful and lovely season.