

She talks about a strange encounter at a strange time between two dreaming lovers, where the narrator's story tells of a young woman named Nastinka, who was facing a lukewarm love affair with a man who did not respond to her letters, to turn to the unknown narrator in the book, in order to help her write letters, so the narrator falls in love with Nastinka on the run From his loneliness to her love, and after Nastinka's despair from her first lover, she turns to the narrator in order to alleviate her concerns and confesses his love, and while they are on the way, she meets her first lover to end that white nights.