

Project information and documentation must be developed and produced using BIM authoring tools, data integration, and collaborative team workflow environments to meet submittal requirements. It is the consultants' and contractors' responsibility to have or acquire, at their own expense, the software, hardware, and trained personnel required to use BIM for the project successfully throughout every stage of the undertaking.