

A large network of healthcare providers updates its information systems and procedures to reduce hospital acquired diseases.