

The presence of social networking sites helps in implementing services related to technology and stimulates the communication process, and users can contact the network in order to create and edit data and exchange information in educational virtual networks.